1 Summary

What?

Schedule 1, Clause 3.6 requires the Company to give Users one month's notice of a change in the RAV value. However, DCP 279 has introduced a fixed method for calculating the RAV to be used, using published data. Therefore, the need to give notice of a change in RAV value is unnecessary and inefficient.

Why?

Removes an unnecessary provision.

How?

Remove Clause 3.6 from Schedule 1 and renumber accordingly.
