Meter exchange creating a C21 code

Is it acceptable for a meter exchange to create a C21 (STIRG scenario 2)?

In the rare scenario that a meter supply neutral is found to be bunched in with a customer's earth cable, can these be separated by a meter engineer using a connection block, rendering the installation C21 reportable?

